International Higher Education Teacher Award 2021/22

International prize for teaching excellence at higher education institutions (HEI) in the European Higher Education Area (EHEA).

Scope of the call

The PROFFORMANCE consortium announces an International Teacher Award in PROFFORMANCE partner countries (Austria, Croatia, Czechia, Georgia, Hungary and Serbia).

Aim of the call

The aim of PROFFORMANCE project is to emphasize teaching quality and cooperation, and to support teaching staff in higher education in the EHEA. (More information about the project: <https://profformance.eu>)

The aim of the call is to identify, acknowledge and recognize excellent teaching practices and to provide opportunities for not only sharing and exchanging best examples, but also to encourage cooperation between EHEA HEIs. The applications should be in line with the current aims and priorities of the European Higher Education Area (Rome Ministerial Communiqué) and the European Education Area.

We are looking for innovative good practices in higher education, which

- introduce new and better-aligned learning, teaching and assessment methods and practices,
- assure flexible and open learning paths, and student-centred learning, encourage students to become active, critical and responsible citizens,
- develop digital skills and competences of students and teachers by using digital technologies for learning, teaching and assessment,
- contribute to achieving the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by 2030
- enable learners to acquire international and intercultural competences through any kind of international experience (curricula, environment, any form of mobility),
- assure universally designed, inclusive education, full access to all aspects of academic life for students of diverse needs.

Timescale and deadlines

Applications should be submitted with the approval of the superior of the applicant (head of department/dean/rector/ etc.) by 22nd December 2021 13.00 CET (the deadline has been extended), using the application platform directly on the "PROFFORMANCE" website. <https://profformance.eu/call-for-application>.

Eligibility

The call is addressed to individuals or groups of individuals officially involved (with formal agreement) in the teaching process (both curricular and extra-curricular (also special courses for non-regular students, courses of int'l week, professional afternoons with involvement of stakeholders, etc.)) at state recognised/accredited higher education institutions.

The applications should present good practices in accordance with the categories of this call. The practice should have been implemented or being in process with justified outputs in the academic years (2018-19, 2019-20, 2020-21, fall term of 2021-22). The applications are only valid with the signature of nomination form of an institutional superior (e. g. head of department/ institution, (vice-)dean, (vice-)rector, etc. of the applicant(s)). See application form. Student nominations are not required, but are worth extra points in the evaluation.

Evaluation and awards

The submissions will be evaluated by an international jury consisting of independent experts of the field according to the evaluation criteria presented in this call and the appendices. The evaluation process will be monitored by PROFFORMANCE consortium partners and professionals checking (inter)national policy relevance of the applications.

The decision will be made according to scores attained in the evaluation form. The decision making body consist of the partners of the consortium <https://profformance.eu/en/partners>.

The award ceremony is planned to be organized in early summer of 2022 at the final event of the PROFFORMANCE project, in Budapest, either physically or online depending on the current situation and regulations.

The awardees

will be guests and have the opportunity to present their best practices at the final event of the PROFFORMANCE project (May 2022 in Budapest) and at various international professional forums, receive the PROFFORMANCE teaching excellence prize with a certificate and a trophy, and will become members of the PROFFORMANCE professional network. Please note, that no financial compensation is offered.
